Please amend the Abstract as follows:

A transverse suspension device for ACL graft fixation in a femoral tunnel includes [[comprising]] a body section and a smooth head section forming the leading end of the device. The [[device, the]] body and smooth head sections each may be [[being]] cannulated along their [[the]] entire lengths [[thereof; the]] . The head section may further include [[comprising]] a recess-engaging section extending proximally from the distal end [[thereof]] and is operable to engage with a recess formed in the bone tunnel~~[[, and]]~~ . The device may further include a graft loop support section between the recess-engaging section and the body section adapted to stably support the graft loop [[thereover]].
